OUR
GUIDING LIGHT AND INSPIRATION

“Children should be taught the art of relaxation, how to be at ease. If they don’t feel relaxed, how can they learn? Without relaxation, no real learning is possible. This is the first lesson that clearly needs to be understood. It is very important that parents & teachers understand this before they ask the children to do something”.

POST GRADUATE DIPLOMA IN MEDICAL RADIOLOGICAL SCIENCES (PGDMRS)

Medical physics is a profession that combines principles of physics and engineering with those of biology and medicine to provide better diagnosis and treatment of human disease while ensuring the safety of the public, patients and those caring for them.

SCOPE:

Most medical physicists are employed at universities and hospitals with a smaller number in research institutes, government health agencies, and industrial organizations. A few are self-employed, usually as consultants.

Frequently, the hospital in which a medical physicist works is associated with a medical school, and the physicist is a member of the academic staff. P.G.D.M.R.S. is a professional course at the Post Graduate level that prepares the students for clinical practice as a medical physicist. The P.G.D.M.R.S. program offers students course work and practical clinical training in Medical Radiological physics as it is applied to the diagnosis and treatment of human diseases. Required course work provides theoretical and practical training in radiation dosimetry, radiation biology, radiation therapy, imaging, and health physics. Graduates of this Post Graduate Medical Physics program typically go on to successful clinical and academic careers where they contribute to all specialty areas of medical physics.
